

Within the Aerospace Industry it is essential that all materials and components are thoroughly tested to the highest possible standards to ensure they meet the desired integrity and withstand the possibly harsh environmental conditions.

Testometric supply a comprehensive range of test systems that are dedicated to testing in the Aerospace Industry. They include test fixtures and software that have been specifically developed to comply with the relevant industry standards.

Software

Testometric provide a windows software package that covers a complete range of aerospace testing. It has pre-defined test methods to international standards that include all relevant calculations.